

The European Network for Workplace Health Promotion

- Your partner in developing and promoting good workplace health practices -

Objectives

- The European Network for Workplace Health Promotion is an informal network of national occupational health and safety institutes, public health, health promotion and statutory social insurance institutions.
- In a joint effort, all members and partners aim to improve workplace health and well-being and to reduce the impact of work-related ill health on the European workforce.

Mission and vision

- The network is committed to developing and promoting good workplace health practices, which in turn contribute to sustainable economic and social development in Europe.
- The mission and vision are compressed into the slogan «Healthy employees in healthy organisations».

Activities

- The ENWHP organises an exchange of experiences throughout Europe by organising conferences and meetings, producing publications, and creating and linking together national networks for WHP.
- The ENWHP identifies «Good Practices» necessary to provide enterprises with a uniform and consistent orientation framework. The network has therefore developed and is continuing to monitor the quality criteria for assessing good practice.
- The ENWHP collects, analyses and disseminates information about WHP and related issues, and shares knowledge with interest groups and decision makers from politics, industry and society.
