European Toolbox – it's not new but it's different

Not only has the ENWHP website got a new look, but also the "European Toolbox" has a new dress. To enhance the usability, the number of selection criteria has been reduced and the user can see at any point how many "tools" there are behind the selected criteria. Many new Models of Good Practice and other supporting materials have been added. more...

Mental Health at the Workplace - guides for employers and employees

Based on the available literature and examples of good practices collected, three guides were produced to help employers and employees to implement measures to promote good mental health at work and to convince European stakeholders and companies that it is necessary and worthwhile to invest in programmes that help improve employees' mental health. Guidance for employers on promoting mental wellbeing through productive and healthy working conditions

The guidance is for those who have a direct or indirect role in, and responsibility for, promoting mental wellbeing at work. This includes all employers and their representatives, irrespective of the size of the business or organisation and whether they are in the public, private, or voluntary sectors. more...

RSPH Launches New Commissioning Guide for Promoting Health and Well-Being

The Guide will assist commissioners in choosing and fully utilising the best methods of promoting health, as it is written with the latest understanding of how commissioners can support people to make healthy choices as individuals within the social and environmental contexts in which they live. Developing and Managing Health Improvement Projects

This project management programme is designed to enable those involved in health improvement to lead or support programme or service developments. It will enable participants to identify suitable aims and objectives, work out how to achieve them and how to assess the effectiveness of their programme. It is a highly interactive programme using case studies and real examples from delegates' day to day experience. more...

Workforce diversity and risk assessment: Ensuring everyone is covered

The report on "Workforce diversity and risk assessment: Ensuring everyone is covered", highlights the need to carry out inclusive risk assessment to take into account the diversity of the workforce when assessing and managing risks. It provides interesting examples of prevention of risks for vulnerable workers, such as migrant workers, disabled workers, young and old workers, women and temporary workers. more...
