Move Europe - A Campaign for the Improvement of Lifestyle-Related Workplace Health Promotion in Europe
Under the leadership of the National Contact Office (NCO) in Italy (ISPESL/University of Perugia), the ENWHP has developed its 7th initiative on lifestyle-related Workplace Health Promotion (WHP), focusing on the combination of the following 4 fields: physical activity, healthy diet, mental health and smoking prevention. The initiative is designed as a campaign which sets quality standards for Good Practice in WHP, identifies complying models and disseminates these results throughout Europe. more...

Become a "Move Europe Company" – Join us now! Move Europe with us!
Workplace health promotion has long since been common practice in many companies. Health management has found its way into corporate strategies and principles in line with the growing significance of health. The "Move Europe" initiative sees itself as the missing boost to publicise the available examples of good practice and help to disseminate them. Your company, too, still has the possibility of becoming a "Move Europe Company". more...

“Move Europe Partner” – An example from Germany
Employee well-being is incorporated worldwide in IBM in the “Corporate Policy 127” and is a firmly established management strategy, fulfilling the basic requirements set out in the Luxembourg Declaration for Workplace Health Promotion. The well-being management system introduced in 1995 helps to coordinate the well-being strategy and is integrated in the processes throughout the company. Employees have access to a wide range of programmes on health, fitness and nutrition. IBM also provides a number of progressive staff programmes, for example flexible working hours, tele-working and on-going job training courses. The Global Well-being team is responsible for implementing the Well-being programme. more...

The Role of Healthy Lifestyle in Enhancing Corporate Culture and Health
Lifestyle-related behaviours such as diet, physical activity, tobacco use and stress exert a strong influence on health. European as well as American and Canadian studies report overweight and obesity, cardiovascular diseases, hypertension and diabetes as the major health risks and diseases mainly due to an “unhealthy” lifestyle. Employers realize the connection between life style habits, good health, decreased absenteeism, lower medical costs, improved performance and higher productivity. That’s why health promotion programmes have become very popular among larger organisations. more...

Health-related and economic benefits of workplace health promotion and prevention
Work health promotion and prevention enjoy wide scale social acceptance. However questions are often raised regarding evidence of the benefits. The effectiveness of occupational health promotion and occupational safety and health
